Court use tops board agenda

PLEASANTON — Eliminating tennis court chancery will be the first order of business when the city's Park and Recreation Commission meets this evening at 8 p.m. in Pleasanton Justice Court, 49 W. Angelia St.

A staff report points out the "gross misuse" of the nine courts at Amador High School — particularly the time limit rule — and recommends the hiring of a court monitor responsible for enforcing all rules and regulations, and the initiation of a 50-cent per hour charge per court.

Revenue generated from the court fee will pay the monitor with any additional funds going to capital expenditures on the courts.

The report sites the "ballooning" popularity of tennis in the past five years, noting the instructional tennis program has expanded from 400 adults in 1969 to 1,884 in 1974, while recreational tennis has "at least tripled" during the same period.

The commission will also discuss allocation of off-highway license fee funds and the assignment of commission committees, in addition to a facility request from the Bay Area Radio Aero Mondelers, Inc.

Good times entries pour in

Parade applications continue to pour in for the encore of "Let The Good Times Roll" Saturday, May 3 in Pleasanton.

Isabel Lemon of Radio KNBR in San Francisco says entries will be accepted through Saturday, April 5. Individuals or groups throughout Northern California wishing to enter should contact Ms. Lemon at KNBR, Grosvenor Plaza, San Francisco. A limit of 225 entries has been set.

Last year's parade, picnic and entertainment at the Fairgrounds drew in excess of 40,000.

The May 3 march will again start in the vicinity of Amador Valley High School, travel down Santa Rita and Main, turn right on Bernal and continue to Gate 5 of the Fairgrounds before disbanding. The parade will start at 11 a.m.

Bebopping along

Dublin High School students continue to boog-a-loo in the 16th hour of a planned 52-hour dance-a-thon to benefit Muscular Dystrophy. Tired students raised a projected figure of $3,873.09 in 48 hours of actual dancing. Out of 24 original dancers, only 6 couples finished the grueling, high-stepping pace.

Tentative salary scales in school cost analysis

PLEASANTON — The Amador-Pleasanton school district business services office is completing a cost analysis based on the salary and benefits proposal made earlier this month by the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association.

Part of the cost analysis deals with working up tentative salary schedules. The administration must make a response to the teacher salary and benefits proposal within 30 days.

Also, under a new law, the taxpayer has the opportunity to comment on negotiation proposals made by teachers.

The salary and benefits proposal made at the March 11 board meeting lists 17 items, from salary schedule setup and a cost of living provision, to sabbatical leave policy, the school calendar and schedule of reading classes.

AVSEA also proposed that the present Stull Bill employee evaluation system within the district be revised to include reciprocal evaluation of the participatory management by the teaching staff.

Teachers want a separate salary schedule, from the Pleasanton district, including a cost of living adjustment based on the statistics for the period April 1974 through March 1975 as provided by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the San Francisco-Oakland area.

Passover

popular religious belief that demonic danger threatened the firstborn of man and beast on the night of the full moon of the month Abib. Each year on this night, a sacrifice was offered and some of the blood placed on the lintel and doorposts.

Everyone remained indoors for fear of the terror outside.

After the Jews left Egypt, the idea of the annual terror found its symbolism in the idea of a plague that struck the Egyptian firstborn on the night of the Exodus. In the new version, the plague came from God.

The Seder service as present-day Jews know it came into fashion in the 1600's. On Passover eve, the entire family gathers at the dinner table for the event which is both a meal and a service of worship.

The Haggadah is the book of worship used; the word means "retelling" or narration of the Exodus story. It also gives the order of the ceremonies to be observed at the Seder and a running commentary of prayer, legend, hymn and explanation.

The traditional Seder table is made as attractive as possible with lighted candles, the best linens and silver and a special set of dishes.

The Seder plate, placed near the leader of the ceremony, holds symbolic foods: A roasted shank bone, reminder of the Paschal Lamb; A roasted egg, symbol of the festival sacrifice offered up in the Jerusalem Temple; Horseradish, bitter herbs to remind participants of the bitterness of the Egyptian slavery; Haroset, a mixture of apples, nuts, cinnamon and wine, which represents the mortar without straw the Israelite slaves used in Egypt; Parsley, dipped into a dish of salt water before eating.

Information on the traditions and history of Passover is available at Valley public libraries. Information for this story was obtained from Marguerite Ickis' "The Book of Religious Holidays and Celebrations" (Dodd, Mead, N.Y.) and Leo Schwartz's "Great Ages and Ideas of the Jewish People" (Modern Library, N.Y.)

Stars washed out in Beep ball

DUBLIN — The Dublin Spring Festival ended on a grand slam scale Sunday, when the East Bay Storms washed out the All Stars 3-0 before a near capacity crowd of 400.

For once the umpires could see.

The players, of course, couldn't, since the Storms are blind youngsters and the All Stars were masked.

The skies cleared and by mid-afternoon the sun was warming the spectators' bones while the Storms warmed their hearts.

Not even the athletic prowess of the Oakland Raiders, San Jose Earthquakes, and the Congress of the United States — well known jock supporters — could stem the blue and white tide of the Storms.

The game started slowly in the brisk spring air, going a full two innings before the Storms smacked a line drive for the first run. But with their momentum growing, the sightless 20- through 23-year-olds blasted through a two-run fourth inning.

A sloppy offense held off the All Stars until the fifth and final inning when the sharp defense of the Storms came into play.

Mr. Santana had been a member of the Stockton Butchers' Union.

The family requests memorial contributions to the heart Association.

The day long event at Dublin High School's field not only closed the Dublin Festival, but also opened the Storms' "home season" in the Valley.

The festivities opened with the introduction of local Beep Baseball director Neil Miller, seen for the first time in public sans his tradition-laden green wind breaker.

Miller quickly introduced Congressman Fortney "Pete" Stark, whose expertise with political hot potatoes is considered superior to his ability to blindly handle beeping mechanism.

When a player hits the ball a similar mechanism in a cone base is activated, emitting a constant tone.

If the batter gets to base before the fielder finds the ball, it's a run, if not, an out.

Four outs retire the side; five strikes to an out.

Should the fielder catch the ball on the fly — and it's not uncommon, according to Miller — the side automatically retires.

Sightless sports teams have beaten the Atlanta Braves, also 3-0, and now the All Stars. A challenge has been issued to the Oakland A's, but it is feared the Storms' formidable record may dissuade Charlie Finley.

30 percent Kaiser energy savings

Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation's Center for Technology at Pleasanton conserved 131 billion BTUs (British Thermal Units) in 1974, a 30 percent savings in its energy consumption as compared to 1973, the company reported today.

According to Dr. E. A. Worthington, administrative director at the center, the savings was achieved by modifying equipment to increase energy usage efficiency, by turning off lights, heating and ventilating units during nonworking hours and by reducing temperatures in winter and raising them in summer in accordance with state Public Utility Commission guidelines.

"Each of our employees has a personal stake in energy conservation in this community," said Worthington, "and the key to our good performance has been the individual efforts devoted to improving energy efficiency."

We are, of course, extremely proud of our energy conservation results last year, and we will continue to emphasize energy savings in all aspects of our operations."

The Center for Technology is Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation's primary research and development facility coordinating study of the products and processes of aluminum, chemicals and refractories.

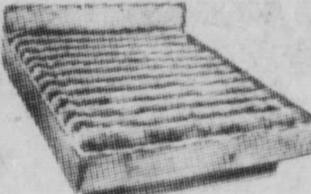

Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation's corporate-wide energy conservation program is designed to monitor energy usage at all company locations.

To evaluate how that energy is used, and to encourage conservation practices. In 1974 the company was named as the first aluminum producer in the nation to receive the U.S. Department of Commerce's SavEnergy Citation for its energy conservation efforts.

Councilman Bill Herlihy, while he joined the rest of the council in praising the formula devised by the staff and approved its adoption, voiced concerns about "adding more sewage to the Sunol (Boulevard) plant. It may well

Little resistance in Pleasanton against sewer permit allocations

PLEASANTON — A formula devised by the city to allocate those 250 sewer permits met with little resistance from property owners and developers Monday night.

Pleasanton officials had hoped the Regional Water Quality Control Board would allow them the entire amount of additional hook-ups requested (541) but since the city got less than half of what it wanted, a formula had to be devised.

Assistant City Manager Al Campbell admitted at the outset "there is no way we can make everyone happy" and "you cannot put 10 pounds of sugar into a 5-pound bag."

He explained the formula had been devised by figuring the percentage of various categories of development relative to the entire 541 permits requested.

Slight adjustments were then made, primarily to get the city off the legal hook to Morrison Homes by providing 79 permits for single family units. (The city has had to place nearly $70,000 in a trust fund pending the outcome of its appeal of an Alameda County Superior Court Judge's decision in the lawsuit filed by that developer).

The ultimate formula provides for the 79 units for Morrison, 39 units for industrial and commercial, 75 for scattered single family lots (including 45 for H.C. Elliott) and 57 for multiple dwelling units.

The city council also established time schedules which will have to be met for picking up building permits and hooking up to the sewer plant. The council and staff emphasized, however, the time frames are flexible and were set up primarily to prevent someone from holding onto sewer permits without valid reasons.

The permits from those 250 permits will generate some $250,000, City Manager Bill Edgar said. Total building fees, including Zone 7, etc., would amount to nearly $700,000.

Councilman Bill Herlihy, while he joined the rest of the council in praising the formula devised by the staff and approved its adoption, voiced concerns about "adding more sewage to the Sunol (Boulevard) plant. It may well compound our problems," he said. "I recognize 250 is a small percentage of the total capacity," he added, "but I think we are going to be banging our head against a wall and will wind up with more financial commitments."

Herlihy added he believed the time had come for the council to "bite the bullet" and not issue any more permits to the Sunol Boulevard plant.

The proposed formula was approved unanimously by the council.

When the regional water board has had an opportunity to evaluate the plant's performance in the hot weather months and after the extra load of the Alameda County Fair, a hearing will be held to determine if additional connections should be allowed at the plant.

The council also considered a request from Birdie Bianchi that the city "take a firm stand in retaining a USDA Food Stamp outlet in the valley."

The only outlet at present is Valley Bank, which has announced it will terminate the service as of May 1. Edgar promised the council a report on the matter would be completed by the council's April 14 meeting.

In other action the council approved a joint powers agreement with the Congress of Valley Agencies (COVA) to approve plans and specifications for the second phase development of the Sports Park and approved the Environmental Impact Report for the city's proposed future sewer facilities.

BERNICE GEN SCHAW

Cards and encouragement from family and friends helped her during rough days after a mastectomy.

Warn of measles danger for uninoculated children

"Immunize your children against measles now," is the urgent advice of Dr. James Chin of the Department of Health in Sacramento.

He warned that Monterey, San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Cruz counties have been the scenes of recent measles outbreaks.

Many of the victims were junior high and high school students. Most of the group entered school prior to 1968 when measles became a prerequisite for entry to elementary school.

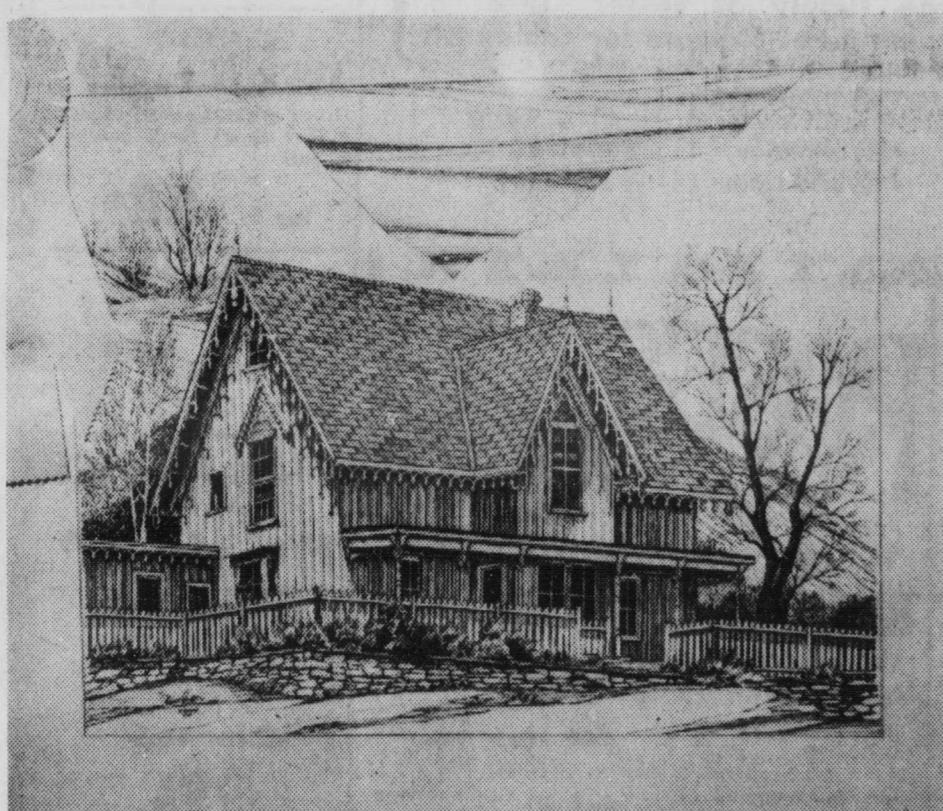

"Some parents might as well still be living in the Dark Ages when plagues raged uncontrollably and nothing could be done," commented Chin, who serves the department's infectious disease section. "They don't bother to get their youngsters the one-time inoculation required to provide lifetime protection against measles."

Department of Health statistics prove the validity of Chin's warning. The recent outbreaks have resulted in twice as many measles victims already this year as California suffered in 1974 at this time and triple the 1973 caseload to this date.

Too many persons regard measles as an almost harmless illness involving little more than a rash, the department reports. According to Dr. Chin, measles can lead to encephalitis, pneumonia, blindness, and even death. Children under 16 are especially vulnerable.

A few of this year's cases have reportedly occurred among persons immunized prior to 1968. The older vaccines may not have been sufficiently effective, believes Dr. Chin.

Winning the battle against post-mastectomy depression

By LILY AULT

While a great number of people approached the new year with a dim, dark attitude, Mrs. Bernice Genschaw of Livermore, saw it as "the brightest year of my life."

Mrs. Genschaw, last year, received the best Christmas gift she has ever received — "a new lease on life."

Two years ago Bernice had a radical mastectomy (surgical removal of the breast and underlying muscles). She spent two weeks in the hospital and went back every three months for check-ups.

"I actually never got over going back for check-ups as my other breast developed fibroid cysts (lumps) and I had to have them removed," she said.

"The fear I lived with for two years was tremendous," Bernice stated. "I hardly slept nights worrying about the cancer and its spreading through my body. Each night I would examine myself and kept feeling more lumps, and lumps becoming larger and larger.

"Finally, if you can call two years finally," she said, "I made up my mind to have an operation to have the other breast removed. I felt there was no choice or decision to be made, it was a matter of life or death and I chose life, even though there were times I felt perhaps death would be the better answer."

"Now with it all over and behind me, I feel wonderful, life is great, it's beautiful. I got rid of that cloud hanging over my head."

Bernice found rehabilitation a "little rough," but once she adjusted her way of thinking, things went better for her.

"I turned fear into faith," she said, "and it is a good feeling to have freedom from fear."

Bernice also ran into complications after her surgery which led her into a deeper depression. Bernice gained control of herself thinking, "depression breeds depression" and she determined to rid herself of it.

"I find when I go into the store and smile at people or just be friendly," she continued, "they look at me as if to say, 'I wonder what she is on?' The public has gotten themselves into such a down and out feeling, I feel it is up to each one of us to change our attitude," she said. I can say these things as I am one who speaks from experience. Once a person makes up his mind to do something, it can be accomplished and as a person he will feel much better toward life."

Bernice has several friends who are living with fear of cancer yet will not go and have a check-up because they dread what they might learn.

"This is so ridiculous," she said. "There is always the other possibility that it can be a minor thing, but to ignore it is bad, as cancer can spread so quickly, yet if caught in time, life can go on and be beautiful."

Bernice went on to explain having both breasts removed is "not all that bad of a thing." She feels fortunate that she has a mature husband who was able to face this type of operation as well as she had to face it.

Bernice feels sorry for girls who are so obsessed with the fear that they would lose their womanly appearance to a point where they would rather die. Or girls with immature husbands who perhaps put pressure on a woman faced with a mastectomy which causes her to make the wrong decision for her own good.

"Cosmetically it's great," she says, adding, with a touch of humor about it all, "you can go shopping for the size breast you'd like to have and have both of them the same size. Realistically she adds that a person's size and build is taken into consideration when being fitted for their new shape, and there is no need to worry that one can no longer wear sweaters or low cut dresses.

"Once properly fitted and adjusted," she commented, "no one would ever know if you had your breast removed or not. Besides, what can be more important than to have another chance at life to spend with your family."

With regards to her family, Bernice feels they are the ones who probably suffer the most at a time like this.

"The family becomes a whipping post," she said. "They are the ones you take your feelings out on."

After "counting her blessings" which included a new granddaughter, Dena Marie, who left the hospital a few days before she did, Bernice sees nothing but a nice bright future before her.

LIVERMORE — Jim Carskaddon has been elected president of the American Taxpayers Union, Local 115, a group perhaps best known for its vocal opposition to the city's grade separation project.

Carskaddon replaces Bob Allen, member of the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) board of directors. Allen will serve as Union treasurer this year.

Vice-president will be Barbara Enos while Paul Tull

Vandalism, property protection chief topic for rare Pleasanton rap session

PLEASANTON — Vandalism, police patrols and the protection of local property will be among the topics when the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce hosts an unusual rap session Tuesday evening, April 1. The focal point of that gathering will be Walter McCloud, chief safety officer for the city.

"We hope all business people and other interested citizens will set aside that evening and bring their questions and their concerns for Chief McCloud's consideration," said chamber vice president Merle Telford in announcing the special meeting. The invitation to McCloud arose out of growing concern expressed by the business sector in vandalism, burglaries and damage to private property.

that session, Telford said.

In other business before the chamber at Tuesday's luncheon meeting, members were informed on progress building

toward the "KNBR Good Times

Parade" set for May 3, and that will include an Arts Festival and a Maid of Pleasanton

Pageant, both at the fairgrounds. The chamber is working with the Alameda

County Fair Board to assure that "only local organizations cleared by the chamber get to operate concessions during recommendation" which calls for one city to be created out of the two communities. It was noted that the two chambers of commerce "played an active role when the two communities last considered merging, in 1967."

For Wednesday, March 26, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your judgment is questionable regarding the course of action you are pursuing. Continue to kid yourself and steps will have to be retraced.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
It is far easier for you to make promises today than it is for you to keep them. Don't volunteer — unless you're sincere.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
This is not the day to gamble on others to bail you out of situations where you have gotten in too deep. Bring your own lifeguard.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't push your budget to the breaking point because you want your family to keep up with the Joneses. It won't stand the strain.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Refrain from telling tall tales today. The stories you embellish later come home to roost, much to your embarrassment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You have a tendency at this time to count material blessings before they become reality. Wait till they're in the bank.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
You're too easily swayed today by others' opinions. Be sure the hotshot who's bending your ear has worthy words.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Don't expect more from others than you would give if the roles were reversed. Put yourself in the shoes of the donor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Friends want to treat you kindly today. They'll say what they think you want to hear. Don't put too much stock in their words.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
It is far easier for you to make promises today than it is for you to keep them. Don't volunteer — unless you're sincere.

Can Pleasanton and Dublin live as one?

It was eight years ago that the proposal for "merging Dublin and Pleasanton into one city" was put forward as a ballot question to be resolved by the residents of those two communities. The results seemed to end the debate once and for all: Pleasanton had voted 951 to 762 in favor of such a merger; Dublin however had negated that move by a whopping 1736 to 468 margin.

A great deal has happened to, and within those two hamlets since 1967. More important perhaps, something has not happened in that span — Dublin has never exercised its option to create a city unto itself.

There are, in fact, more things which bind these two Amador Valley centers together than there are evidences of their separation. A single "Amador Valley Joint Union High School District" serves the entire township; the Murray Elementary School District which embraces all of Dublin, relies on Pleasanton for almost half its enrollment; the Valley Community Services District, while essentially an agency providing local services to Dublin, has its major facility based within the City of Pleasanton, and looks to that city for half of its total waste treatment flow.

Added to the county, state and federal precincts which embrace all of the Amador Valley within their constituencies, there appears a daily flow of governmental inter-action which makes these communities function as one.

The Alameda County Local Agency Formation Commission acknowledges these similarities, and more, when it put forth that detailed study suggesting that the "sphere of influence" embraced by Pleasanton is the same as that contained by Dublin. The next step, the LAFC concludes, should be one municipal structure to serve both.

The 1967 fears of "one are being taken over by the other" are lost in the balance of population which prevails on both sides of that freeway. Further, there is evidence that Dublin is at least as self-sustaining from a property tax view as the Pleasanton of 1975.

But it is not our intention here of raising all the points, pro or con. We merely suggest that intelligent, thoughtful people on both those communities might now find reason to study anew the possibility and the mutual profit of creating one healthy city, out of several uncertain parts.

After 100 years of living so close together, the time may have come for Dublinites and Pleasantonites to wonder why it is they have never been joined as one.

do with some kids allegedly "tearing up the park" in Valley Trails.

It sounded bad.

We went out and looked around but Pleasanton's finest had the situation under control. Suffice to say there's an article on the subject. I'd like to add that residents of Valley Trails are quite concerned about their park and would appreciate it if parents would not allow the resident Evil Kneivel to do their thing on the grass and off the bench ramps.

But back to Foothill Road.

Now THERE'S a continuing problem that won't go away for quite some time. It involves navigating in and out of Foothill High School.

The "fun" begins when Foothill High adds junior and senior classes... when the kids are old enough to drive to and from school.

Add in the normal commute hour traffic, plus those students who may pedal or walk along Foothill and all of a sudden you've got a serious situation.

Foothill, the road that is, comes up short when considering the better two or four lane thoroughfares hereabouts.

And to really brighten your day, just think of all the vehicular and pedestrian activity when Stoneridge Shopping Center goes into action.

We suggest that before the opening of school next September a public meeting be held involving parents and students at Foothill High School... to publicize a course of action on how to safely get into and out of Foothill.

You'll pardon me while I step out for a cup of coffee... I've worried myself into a corner.

We started the week with great expectations but things are beginning to bog down.

Perhaps lulled by "signing" the last member of The Times' super-sensational trivia team (Paul Walters), we proceeded to the problem of making Foothill Road a safer thoroughfare on which to travel.

Early into that effort the phone rang and a lady on the other end was seething. Had to

It sounded bad.

We went out and looked around but Pleasanton's finest had the situation under control. Suffice to say there's an article on the subject. I'd like to add that residents of Valley Trails are quite concerned about their park and would appreciate it if parents would not allow the resident Evil Kneivel to do their thing on the grass and off the bench ramps.

But back to Foothill Road.

Now THERE'S a continuing problem that won't go away for quite some time. It involves navigating in and out of Foothill High School.

LARRY MASTERS of San Leandro had some big cats to prove that the Siphon (Delta-Mendota Canal) is a good producer of catfish. Good luck prevailed for a number of fishermen upstream from the Mountain House. My own luck was not so good and Larry gave me some useful advice.

"Are you sure those worms are the right color?" he asked. "They must have a deep gray color with a light tinge of pink or those cats won't have a thing to do with them." So I guess the worms weren't pink enough. Something made those cats pass by, anyway.

Emery Hough of Dublin reports he had plenty of good panfish (up to seven inches) from Trappers Slough. He says they were all hooked on big fat worms.

Clinton Court forebay was also a good producer right after the high wind and rain on Saturday. And at Bethany Reservoir there were lots of cats and a few stripers. So get out and try your luck next weekend. Those fish are out there waiting for you!

SEVENTY SQUADS or more lined up at the Livermore-Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club for the ham and bacon shoot on March 23.

Don Baumann, Page Hopwood, and Pat Lothrop were the experts who kept things going smoothly. Everyone seemed to enjoy the day, and especially the juniors and ladies. Another such shoot will be held sometime this summer.

Meanwhile, there are other shoots coming up at the local club, with something for everyone. So watch for announcements in the near future.

If you'd like to have a super new trap gun, consider the new Century II single barrel put out by the well known firm of Ithaca Gun Company. This gun has a chrome-lined rototofed barrel and a black chrome exterior (which should cut down on reflections as well as the rust problem); has a double locking system; an electro/chemical polished hammer as well as a sear for consistent trigger pull; and a hand-checkered walnut makes up the stock and forend.

A Bradley-type front sight and middle bead tops a semi-wide matted vent rib. English-type scroll etching enhances the receiver. There is also a gold plated receiver and a gold-plated name plate, just for you.

Options include your choice of Monte Carlo or straight stock, 32 or 34 inch barrel — and the cost for all this is in the neighborhood of $600. Seem like a lot? Well, it should be an excellent trap gun and Ithaca has been in the business a long time with trap and standard hunting equipment.

OUTDOOR SPORTS are not simply fishing and hunting — many people enjoy a hobby of outdoor photography. For that reason, the California Fish and Game Commission has announced that it will sponsor a statewide photography award program in an effort "to foster a greater appreciation for, and a better understanding of, California's varied fish, wildlife and habitat resources."

Commission President Timothy M. Doheny of Los Angeles said that photographs of live fish and wildlife species in their native habitat and pictures of the natural environment will be accepted for the contest to be held each year.

Entries will be judged by recognized experts. Doheny said he is seeking the aid of the nationally recognized Friends of Photography, a Carmel-based membership organization devoted to photography as a fine art, to provide judges. The nonprofit organization is headed by the noted photographer Ansel Adams.

Awards of excellence will be made for black and white and color prints in five categories: fish, birds, mammals, reptiles and amphibians, and the natural environment. Special recognition will be given to the photographer with the outstanding photograph of the year.

Additional information may be obtained from the Fish and Game Commission, 1416 Ninth St., Sacramento 95814.

A PROPOSAL AFFECTING the pet trade in native reptiles and amphibians except frogs has been made by the Department of Fish and Game (DFG).

The suggested regulations are the outgrowth of a bill adopted by the State Legislature which authorized the commission to regulate commercial use of species such as salamanders, toads, turtles, lizards and snakes.

Deleray's finest game falls short

Mark Deleray played his finest match of the season, but it wasn't enough for Ballistic United, which dropped a 3-2, penalty kick overtime decision to the Wolters Cherokees in under-12 State Cup soccer at Fresno last weekend.

The semi-final defeat denies the Pleasanton club a shot at the Cup championships to be played next month in Clovis.

Deleray almost earned United a berth in the finals when he scored 10 minutes into the second half, but the Cherokees retaliated to send the game to overtime.

Wolters out-scored United, 3-2, in a penalty kick showdown. Deleray and David Croteau scored for Ballistic.

Goal keeper Scott Wilcox played well in a losing cause with five saves.

David Woodward and Darren Hicks were outstanding in the backfield.

The defeat left United with an overall record of 53-16-5.

Doused Dons eye sky

The elements could be the single biggest road block for Amador Valley High School as it plows through the Arroyo Easter Baseball Tournament this week.

The Dons have the tools to improve on their third place finish of a year ago, says coach Don Bush. Now if the rain lets up, Amador may have the opportunity to pursue a title in one of the East Bay's tougher baseball gatherings.

The Arroyo tourney was washed out again yesterday after the opening round games of Monday.

Weather permitting, Amador will return to work at 1 p.m. in the winners' bracket, facing Oakland High. San Ramon, also a Monday winner, will face Kennedy at the same time.

Down on the losers' side, Livermore meets San Leandro at 11 a.m.

Meanwhile in Fremont, the Mission Valley Easter Tournament attempts to get underway a fourth time. Rain has washed out every round so far. One more postponement.

They possess the one ingredient, Bush says, that could push the team to a tournament title. That is pitching.

"We've got the staff to do it," he says; "and it's pitching that wins baseball tournaments."

Amador will start strikeout specialist Mark Larson today against Oakland, 5-0 for the season. Larson has won once and lost twice this year. He is a hard thrower who has suffered control trouble. That, says Bush, is being corrected however.

"He was not watching the target, but he's very conscious of it now. He realizes he can't get away with it and be effective." Larson walked 14 men in his last two assignments. He still came out favorably, however, in the strikeout vs. bases-on-balls comparison.

Larson may hold an edge over Oakland, Bush says, because rain has thrown the hitters off. Pitchers, he points out, can still work while the batters rust. It's all the tougher to come back to action against a fire-baller like Larson.

Though Amador is in pursuit of the tournament title, its coach will shuffle the lineup some for experimental purposes.

Bush is still trying to heal the wounds of graduation that cost him an entire starting lineup. "We lost a lot of good players," he admits readily. "But we've got the potential to do the job again this year. We just have to play together as a team, and we're starting to do that now."

We have the pitchers to do it, if the hitting and defense pick up a little."

Should Amador win this afternoon, it will face the winner of the San Ramon-Pacific contest Friday at Arroyo. The championship contest will be played Saturday.

Running away from home

Footloose in Fun City

Roy Kissin

EN ROUTE TO RABAT — His track bag swinging freely at his side, Frank Shorter strode toward the Kennedy Airport conference room where the team was to assemble.

Upon seeing me, the Olympic marathon champion knitted his brow as he strained to place my face.

"I've met you before," he said.

"San Francisco," I replied. "Examiner Games. I'm Roy Kissin."

"Right. I'm Frank Shorter. Want to run?" (Frank revealed the impulsive side of his character early on. He was to ask the very same question every time we had a few spare minutes.)

Outside, driving sleet pelted the pavement.

"OK," I said, not enthused about the prospect of braving the storm, yet not wanting to miss a chance to run with someone I had so long admired.

We changed quickly and stepped outside.

"I'll take you on my JFK seven-miler," he explained. "It's part of my worldwide network of airport runs. I've got courses in Munich, Paris, London, Atlanta, San Francisco."

Observing Frank's ever-changing stream of consciousness was delightful. He chatted amiably as we ran. The rain had all but stopped.

"We go by a sewage treatment plant and a dump. Hey, a dump truck! What's more New York than a dump truck? This is like running in Japan — all this traffic. Where the hell are we, anyway?"

We approached the dump, turned a corner and ran through a corridor formed by the entire fleet of New York City's sanitation department trucks. An awful stench permeated our lungs. Frank interspersed laughter and curses.

"So this is New York," I marveled. We circled and retraced our path, discussing what effect the enormous jet lag might have on our race performances. (Shorter was entered in the Senior Championships, which would take place just prior to my race.)

"I've learned to wind down, to shift gears while flying," said Frank. "Of course, two or three drinks help also."

Despite the New York taxi drivers, we arrived back at the airport without incident. Drawing quite a few odd stares, we entered the terminal, our steaming bodies padding along the hard tile floor. Such is the training of a world-class athlete and international traveler. One's training must fit the schedule, not the other way around.

We dressed hurriedly. Fifteen minutes later we boarded Flight 900 to Lisbon and Casablanca. Frank hung his bright red thermal underwear (which doubles as a sweat suit) from the luggage rack to dry. He then settled into his seat and promptly fell asleep, waking only for dinner and his three beers.

Ex-'Stang Wilson leads OSU

HAYWARD — Mark Wilson, the freshman from Monte Vista who last year set a national high school high jump mark of just under 7-2, won the event for Oregon State yesterday as the Beavers overwhelmed hosting Cal State-Hayward.

Wilson took the victory via fewer misses as teammate Mike Fleer and the Pioneers Dave Friday also cleared the winning height of 6-10.

We're doing a lot of belt tightening here at PG&E in order to cut down costs in every way possible. And I'm responsible for cutting down energy use in a complex of PG&E buildings.

We turn down thermostats and close drapes at night to minimize heat loss.

Throughout our offices and service centers we reduced the use of electricity and gas by 32%. Here's how you can save on heating and cooling your home:

Most attics in California aren't insulated. You can trim your heating costs up to 20% when your attic is insulated up to "R-19," the standard recommended by the National Bureau of Standards. And if your house is air conditioned you'll save on summer cooling costs, too.

Also, during warm weather, try a less refrigerated setting on the air conditioner. You'll find 78° quite comfortable.

In winter, lower the thermostat to William C. Wyatt, PG&E Supervising Building Engineer.

68° or less during the day and 60° during the night. In fact, if your thermostat is set 6° lower this year than last, you stand to lower your fuel consumption up to 10%.

On sunny days, open the drapes and let the sun warm your home, naturally. And by closing the drapes again in the evening, you can help stop the heat lost through the windows.

If you have a fireplace, shut the damper when the fire's out to prevent heat from escaping up the chimney. Also, keep all exterior doors—including those to the garage, attic and basement—tightly closed.

Dirty furnace filters can block heat, so clean or replace them regularly. And don't forget to have your furnace serviced at least once a year. It'll not only heat your home more efficiently, but the extra savings on fuel will make you feel even more comfortable.

Save energy—you'll save money, too.

Speed trophies

Livermore Boy Scout Pack 950 members (from right) Duane Viano, Alan Chun and Doug Singer took first, second and third place, respectively, in the speed competition of the pack's annual Pinewood Derby held last week. The Scouts carved, painted and adorned their race cars out of plain blocks of wood. Duane's car was number 6; Alan, number 2, and Doug, number 22.

Pair of power boat events scheduled for Del Valle

Special power boat, sailing and water skiing event dates at Del Valle Regional Park have been announced by the East Bay Regional Park District.

May 18 and Sept. 7 are the two days on which power boat and skiing will be allowed at the park.

Skiing will be permitted at the north end of the lake in Blue Heron, Shallow Bays and the intervening narrows. This will provide a six-mile loop for skiers.

At the same time, the Livermore Outboard Power Boat Association will hold its mini-hydro events at the south end of the lake, adjacent to the east lakeside swim beach.

Del Valle Sailing Club's boating schedule for this year is April 12, May 31, June 21-22, June 28, July 26-27, August 16, Sept. 27 and Oct. 18.

The Lightning Fleet has reserved May 17.

Reservations for water skiing events on May 18 and Sept. 7 must be made in person and in advance at the park main gate. Only one family head may register for one of the two available days.

The event is limited to 55 ski boats on the 750-acre lake and those with reservations must check in by 11 a.m. the day of the event or others will be allowed to register on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Fishing and sailing craft will be banned from the five-mile lake for the two days and the normal 10 mile-an-hour speed limit for water craft will be lifted.

All events must conform to National Safety Council standards. The park district reserves the right to cancel one or more of the events due to unforeseen circumstances (construction, extreme fire hazard, overcrowding or unexpected draw-downs of the lake water by the state or federal government).

Del Valle Regional Park is located 12 miles southeast of Livermore.

Weather fails to daunt recyclers

Despite snow, sleet, wind and freezing rain, the Kaiser Aluminum Can - DO recycling center paid out more than $200 to 44 individuals for aluminum cans, foil and television dinner trays.

Over 1,523 pounds were collected on opening day — which coincided with the worst weather of the year.

The collection is done by a mobile van which will make an appearance at the Kaiser Aluminum Center for Technology on Sunol Boulevard every Thursday from noon to 4 p.m.

The Can - DO center will pay 15 cents a pound for flattened aluminum cans, cleaned foil and TV dinner trays. The largest single weight turned in on the first day of the center's operation was 200 pounds — worth $30.

Only one application for vacancy left by Hersevoort on board

Only one person has made application to date for the position vacated by Bert Hersevoort on the Amador Valley High School District Board of Trustees.

Interested persons in the district, which serves Dublin, Amador, Foothill and Valley high schools, should send a resume of their background to Dr. Bruce Newlin, secretary to the board, Amador Valley High School District, P.O. Box 130, Pleasanton 94566, by Friday, April 11.

Trustees are expected to appoint a replacement at the Amador board meeting of April 15. Hersevoort, who resigned earlier this month, had slightly more than two years remaining on his term.

The April 15 meeting will also serve as the reorganization meet with Dr. Geraldine Donaldson and incumbent Charles Beazley being sworn in for four-year terms.

Dr. Donaldson, current president of the Pleasanton

Elementary School District board, will complete her term with the latter board and continue her service to the community when sworn in on the 15th. She has been a school board member for 12 years.

Hersevoort's resignation takes effect March 31, the same day Mayo Miller of the high school board completes his term.

At least three members of the high school board have indicated they would not necessarily be looking strictly for a Dublin resident to replace Hersevoort, who lives in that community. All said they would be mainly concerned with seeking a person responsive to the needs of the entire district no matter where the person lives.

The elementary district board's reorganizational meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, April 9 at the District Educational Center.

Betty Nostrand and incumbent Joe Schwab will be sworn in.

A new president is absolutely certain with Dr. Donaldson moving to the high school board.

The Amador board is presided over by John Delaney.
